Phone Workers Map Plans for Possible Strike

(By The Associated Press)

The National Federation of Telephone Workers mapped plans today for a possible nation-wide tieup of telephone service "at any time" after conclusion of a strategy meeting now under way.

The executive board of the union, authorized yesterday to call a strike for higher wages ,went into a special session at Memphis, Tenn., with heads of 15 affiliated unions which have complied with the Smith-Connally act by filing strike notices.

John J. Moran, president of the Federation of Long Line Telephone Workers, which has filed notice, said it was "very probable" a strike date would be set at the conference.

However, Joseph A. Beirne, NFTW president, has stated no strike would be called until "all avenues of peaceful negotiations are closed."

A strike of the union's 250,000 members would tie up long distance telephone service and shut off local calls in most states.

The number of strike idle in the nation was reduced to around 970,000 by continuing settlements in the steel strike.

In Chicago, the National Harvester council of the CIO Farm Equipment and Metal Workers union accepted a fact-finding board's recommendations in the dispute which has caused a month-long strike by 30,000 workers in 10 International Harvester company plants.

The board recommended a wage hike of 18 cents an hour and contract provisions for maintenance of union membership and checkoff of union fees. The strike, however, continued, and the council said its decision called for a resumption of negotiations with the company.

The country's longest strike, the 92-day old work stoppage of 175,000 CIO employes in General Motors plants, continued and there was nothing to indicate principals were near agreement on main issues being discussed in Detroit meetings.

A general strike by AFL unions remained in effect in Lancaster, Pa., today as efforts were made by a federal conciliator to end the 15-day old transit strike over higher wages.

In New York, Michael J. Quill, president of the CIO Transport Workers union, said he would call a strike against the city's transit system unless the board of transportation recognizes his union as the sole bargaining agent for some 32,000 transit workers.

An estimated 1300 employes of four large Detroit dairies quit work in a wage dispute today, shutting off milk deliveries to approximately 400,000 families.

Pope Stresses Part Church Will Play in Post-War World

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 20 (AP)—Pope Pius XII told the new cardinals in an address today that their elevation to the sacred college emphasized the universality of the church in the world.

The church, he declared, is "indivisible."

The speech ,broadcast from the Vatican City radio and heard in many parts of the world, was delivered in the hall of benedictions, where the pope had just placed biretas on 29 of the 32 new cardinals, including four from the United States.

Speaking of social values ,the pontiff said the individual man should be able to use his own powers and not be subjected by the community.

The pontiff pleaded: "Let us have faith in the church. If everything around it crashes, it remains unshaken.

"The church today more than ever must reject the conception that it must retire within the secrecy of its temples. The faithful themselves must be the church and therefore they have united themselves into the society of the church.

"It is the aim of the supernationality of the church to form this society.

"This is particularly difficult today when men are declared guilty for the sole reason that they belong to a certain community. This is assuming divine powers."

The pope said: "Only the church can conduct man back to the light and assure his safety for the future. The church, like a mother, assembles all her children all over the world and embraces humanity."

He spoke for approximately 30 minutes and ended with an apostolic blessing.

Germans Cling To Bombed Cities

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

ESSEN, Germany, Feb. 20. (AP)—It has to be seen to be believed but this great industrial and coal mining city, which was blown to smithereens by American and British bombing during the last year of the war still breathes and moves and has a being.

Even more remarkable is the fact that this home of the colossal Krupp armament works was by no means the sole city to cling to a thread of life in the man-made earthquake which swept the manufacturing centers of the Ruhr. Essen's ghostly survival is typical of her sister cities.

Virtually every building in this city—which sprawled over many square miles and contained a peak population of nearly three quarters of a million—is in ruins. The destruction is so nearly complete that experts estimate it will require 30 years to remove the rubble alone so that reconstruction can be undertaken.

Still, some 365,000 people are living—if you call their mode of existence living—and working among the ruins.

A lot of folk are salvaging bricks and building themselves little huts against the walls of partly demolished houses. Some lucky people have discovered buildings with a few rooms more or less intact and are making their homes in these.

And the purpose of all this? It's partly because Essen was the home of most of these folk. Moreover, one of Germany's great problems is to find housing for displaced peoples. Then, too, the coal mines in the Essen area are operating and many miners are among those who live in the ruins.

What is going on in Essen is being duplicated in most other places in the Ruhr.

The moral to this story is that the German people are possessed of an immense amount of energy and persistence. Hitler harnessed these qualities for evil purposes. The allies must harness them for good.

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 — The highest officers of the United States navy have been engaged in

The clash of navy brass far overshadows the squabbles which have followed almost every war in American annals. Those disputes merely involved different groups of commanders in an official assessment of their responsibility for tactical blunders on land or on the water, like the Schley-Sampson argument after the Spanish war.

* * *

DUEL The present feud, which exnumerous discrepancies, inconsistencies and failures of memory at the hearing itself, came from the attempt of one naval faction to pin the blame for the navy's worst defeat on Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, head of the Pacific fleet that was destroyed by the surprise attack.

This group, which consists of high naval officers who were on duty in Washington in close association with the White House, the state department and the late Secretary Knox, seek to exonerate their superiors at the capital. They aim to shunt the principal blame to Kimmel as well as Lieutenant General Walter C. Short, the army commander in Hawaii.

It is this clique which, according to Admiral Kimmel's testimony, passed judgment on him and Short without a trial in an attempt to "crucify" them and and save their own reputations.

It is, in short, a duel between the men in mufti, together with their naval advisers, and the men who stood on the bridges of battleships.

* * *

BREAKDOWN The other faction believes that the navy's reputation and traditions will suffer permanently if too great stigma is attached to Kimmel and commanders afloat.

Its witnesses have insisted in every instance that Hawaii would have been on the alert if the civilian officials and their army-navy experts

Officer Ignored Private's Warning

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—An ex-G. I. told today how he discovered Japanese planes sneaking up to attack Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941, and how a superiod officer advised him and his buddy to "forget it."

The account was related to the senate-house inquiry committee by George E. Elliott, one time buck private who detected the enemy planes on a radar set almost an hour before the bombs fell on the Pacific fleet base.

On the morning of the attack he and another private, Joseph Lockard, were alone at the mobile radar station in the northernmost tip of the island of Oahu. They had kept the set operating beyond the regular 7 a. m. closing hour so Lockard could teach Elliott radar plotting.

Elliott said that at 7:02 a. m. their radar scope picked up a large flight of planes 136 or 137 mles away three degrees east of north.

He said that within seven or eight minutes of plotting he tried to raise the aircraft warning center by a direct telephone but got no answer.

Elliott then used another circuit and raised a Private McDonald who said there was no one around who knew what to do with the information, Elliott testified. He said he asked him to find someone.

"Two ar three minutes later," he said, a lieutenant called back and talked to Lockard. He quoted Lockard as saying the lieutenant said to "forget it."

(The army Pearl Harbor board has identified this lieutenant as Kermit A. Tyler, later promoted to lieutenant colonel.)

New Mines Can Get Premium Prices

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Lead mine operators who began production after October 27, 1943, now are eligible for the same subsidy payments allowed producers in business prior to that time.

Under the premium price plan all lead mine productions now may qualify for "A" and "B" production quotas, the civilian production administration announced. These quotas are for producers who are unable to operate profitably under the ceiling price of 6½ cents a pound.

Under quota "A" the reconstruction finance corporation pays a subsidy of up to 2¾ cents a pound above the ceiling for production in excess of the quota assigned to any company, or a price up to 9¼ cents a pound.

Quota "B" provides an additional 2¾ cents a pound, or up to 12 cents, for excess production "when the additional premium is shown to be warranted."

Industry Urged To Sign Up and Trust to OPA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The labor department opened a drive today to "push for settlement" of all current strikes and get the reconversion program back into high gear.

Secretary Schwellenbach told industry generally his advice was to "sign up and trust to OPA."

At the same time a high OPA official promised employes that price increase applications to offset wage boosts under the new stabilization policy "are going to be handled fast."

This pledge fitted in with Schwellenbach's assertion that the success of the new wage-price policy would hinge on prompt government action. Schwellenbach added at a news conference yesterday that he had assurances from the federal agencies involved that speedy consideration with will be given to all requests for price relief.

The OPA official, who withheld his name, made this summary of the problem ahead:

"There are no two ways about it, we have just got to move speedily."

He added that OPA is confident it can stay abreast of any flow of petitions for price help. If necessary, personnel will be transferred from other OPA departments.

OPA already has cost information available for a number of industries, the official said, adding that this would lighten the load in the case of many qualified price applications.

In the case of industries where complete cost information is not readily available, the agency plans to grant interim price increases pending further surveys.

Ford Denies He Sought Price Relief

DETROIT, Feb. 20 (AP)—Henry Ford 11, president of the Ford Motor company, in a telegram to Representative Brent Spence (Dem., Ky.) chairman of the house banking and currency committee today asserted that his company had applied for no price relief on any of its cars since OPA price ceilings were established.

The telegram reiterated young Ford's willingness to appear before the house committee "if there is really any public interest to be served."

"We do not want to get into public arguments with OPA or any other government agency at this time, especially since the president late last week announced a new wage-price policy," the telegram said.

"However, I have stated publicly my opinion that inflation is based on scarcity and that the way to prevent inflationary prices of manufactured products is to produce goods for people to buy with the money they have to spend."

Friday Will Not Be Legal Holiday

BOISE, Feb. 20. (AP)—Governor Arnold Williams said today he will not proclaim Washington's birthday, February 22, a legal holiday.

The 1943 session of the state legislature modified the state law by declaring February 22; June 15 Pioneer day), and October 12 (Columbus day), as no longer legal holidays in Idaho. However, authority was given to the governor to proclaim such days as he saw fit as legal holidays.

The Wallace postoffice will be closed Friday, inasmuch as the day is a legal federal holiday, Postmaster L. C. Harris said today. Parcels will be delivered and mail distributed to boxes. Banks and state, county and city offices will be open, however.

Declares Pauley Should Withdraw

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Senator Stewart, Tennessee democrat, asserted today Edwin W. Pauley's nomination as undersecrtary of navy had "seriously split" the democratic party and Pauley should withdraw his name "in common decency."

Stewart issued his statement shortly after Abe Fortas testified he heard Pauley discuss democratic campaign contributions and the Tidelands oil suit with Harold L. Ickes but could not recall whether the two subjects were linked "on a contingent basis."

The former undersecretary of interior offered this testimony to the senate naval committee, which is studying Pauley's nomination to be undersecretary of navy.

Ickes, former interior department chief, previously had testified that Pauley had told him $300,000 in democratic campaign contributions could be obtained from oil men if the government would not press its suit to determine ownership of submerged coastal lands.

Earlier Navy Secretary Forrestal told the committee he believed Pauley, a California oil man, would subordinate his personal interests to those of the navy if he is confirmed. Forrestal said he would insist that Pauley give up his business connections if he took the official position in the navy department. He said that he told Pauley this after President Roosevelt had suggested the California oil man for a navy post.

He said he preferred H. Struve Hensel for the assistant secretaryship Mr. Roosevelt had in mind at the time, but that he endorsed Pauley when another vacancy occurred on the condition that he "demonstrated the necessary capacity and intelligence."

Urges Drive Against Houses Of Ill Fame

An appeal to business men of Wallace to act through the Chamber of Commerce in a campaign to suppress organized prostitution in Wallace was voiced at the chamber's weekly luncheon this noon by Barent Burhans, San Francisco, a representative of the social protection union of the federal security agency, who has been here for the past week on an investigation of local conditions. Burhans said there are now four organized houses of prostitution in Wallace.

He told of other communities that have suppressed such establishments.

Dr. Paul Ellis appeared before the chamber in a talk opposing the national health act, a socialized medicine measure, now pending in congress. His talk was in line with a request of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce that Idaho chambers adopt resolutions opposing the measure, action on which was deferred until next week.

K. J. Morrow gave a detailed report on progress of the emergency housing program for Wallace.

Congress Wants Atom Secret Guarded Well

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes' assurance that the know-how of atomic bomb production remains an exclusive United States secret brought a renewed Capitol Hill cry today of "guard it well."

In the wake of Canadian disclosures of arrests to break up a foreign spy ring, the congressional reaction to Byrnes' statement was a mixture of relief and admonition to make sure it can't happen here.

Typical of that reaction were these comments to a reporter:

Chairman May (Dem., Ky.) of the house military committee—"I only hope that he is correct. We should preserve the secrecy of the atom bomb until positively assured of an effective United Nations agreement not to utilize it for war."

Chairman Carl Vinson (Dem., Ga.) of the house naval committee—"I am glad we still keep it."

Representative Mundt (Rep., S. D.), member of the house foreign affairs committee—"Mr. Byrnes' assurances are both surprising and gratifying. I think that the atomic bomb secret should be kept until we are assured of proper control. In the meantime, the FBI should be given a green light from the White House to clean out every last vestige of a spy ring in this country regardless of the country concerned."

Privately, a number of lawmakers still expressed a desire for a more complete picture of the Canadian investigation and its possible ramifications here and for more details on the situation which Byrnes acknowledged he knew about as long ago as last November.

In answer to direct questions at his news conference yesterday, the secretary of state declined to say:

Whether any scientific secrets leading up to the development of the atomic bomb had leaked out of this country—only God and God alone would know, he said.

What his position is on the opinion expressed by Joseph E. Davies, former U. S. ambassador to Russia, that the soviet union has "every moral right" to seek atomic bomb secrets through military espionage so long as she is barrel from such information by her former fighting allies.

President Signs Employment Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—President Truman today signed an employment bill and described it as a weapon which can be used in attacks upon "mass unemployment and ruinous depression."

The measure, a compromise for so-called "full employment" legislation, sets forth a government policy of promoting maximum employment, production and purchasing power.

Mr. Truman said the legislation "is not all I had hoped for." It is, he added in a statement, "not the end of the road, but rather the beginning."

He pictured it as a commitment by the government to take all measures necessary for a healthy economy "that provides opportunities for those able, willing and seeking to work."

The legislation provides a council of three economic advisers at salaries of $15,000 who will assist and advise the president in the preparation of a periodic "economic report" to congress.

This report, together with supplements issued as the council may see fit, will be studied by a joint committee on the economic report. This group, consisting of seven members from each house of congress, will seek methods of implementing the recommendations.

Load Limit Put On Highway 10

A load limit of 450 pounds per inch width of tire will be enforced on highway 10 from Coeur d'Alene to the Idaho-Montana line beginning Friday, the Idaho bureau of highways announced today.

It also announced that a speed limit of 25 miles per hour for trucks will be enforced.

Says China Not Party to Pact

CHUNGKING, Feb. 20 (AP)—Reports of renewed fighting in Manchuria circulated here today as a government spokesman asserted that China was not a party to the Yalta agreement "and she is not bound by it."

The Yalta agreement gave Russia control of important Port Arthur in Manchuria; declared Dairen a free port and gave the soviet joint administration with China of specified Manchuria railroads.

"In this (Manchurian) connection, nothing but the Sino-Soviet treaty is binding upon both China and Russia," the spokesman, Ho Feng Shan, director of the information section of the foreign office, told a press conference.

Ho said "no definite reply" has been received from Russia to China's inquiry about the Soviet plan for withdrawal from Manchuria, last scheduled for February 1, but now unofficially reported for about June 1.

He stated that an informal discussion "on certain categories of Japanese industries" in Manchuria had taken place "but there has been no agreement of views."

This was the first official indication of the topic of current Sino-Soviet discussions, which Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek recently referred to simply as "economic."

Ho passed the question of whether China intended to place the Manchuria situation before the United Nations organization. Asked why, he said he had not been authorized to reply to it.

Group to Vote on Housing Funds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—The question of putting $1,600,000,000 in federal funds behind President Truman's program for 2,700,000 new houses headed toward a vote today in the house banking committee.

The committee agreed to interrupt its questioning of Chester Bowles on continuation of price controls and turned its attention to the legislation intended to provide an unprecedented number of new homes for war veterans in the next two years.

It must decide whether to write into the bill a provision for a $1,000,000,000 increase in the federal housing administration's authorization to insure housing mortgages, and also whether the government, as Mr. Truman recommends, should provide $600,000,000 for subsidy payments to bring out larger production of scarce building materials.

Carrying his fight for price control extension to the nation in a radio address last night, Bowles lashed out at the "few small but powerful pressure groups" which he said are trying to break down the defenses against higher living costs.

He called on the National Association of Manufacturers "to repudiate their irresponsible leadership" and to "let the American people know where the responsible majority of business men stand."

BOISE, Feb. 20 (AP)—Scenic exhibits featuring tourist opportunities in Idaho and the Pacific Northwest will be sent to travel shows which are planned in Detroit and Chicago, E. G. Harlan, secretary manager of the Boise chamber of Commerce, said today.

Clothing Supply To be Increased

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Congressional committees heard today that OPA is nearly ready to take steps to increase the supply of low-cost clothes, and that "totalitarian viewpoints" prevail in the army.

Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles informed the house banking committee that OPA would announce soon a prógram intended to increase by about 50 per cent the production of low-cost garments like shirts, shorts and pajamas.

Brigadier General H. S. Holdridge of Washington, who retired from the army two years ago, opposed peacetime military training before the house military committee. He said it would "undermine our national democracy by indoctrinating 18-year old boys with the totalitarian viewpoints prevalent in the army."

Phone Marriage Unites Kellogg Man And WAC Staff Sergeant in Germany

The district court chamber in Wallace was the setting this afternoon of a telephone marriage uniting a Kellogg man and a Woman's Army corps staff sergeant now stationed in Frankfort, Germany.

The participants were Reed M. Chapman, Kellogg, a former U. S. army staff sergeant, who met Staff Sergeant Lois A. Wilson, Seattle, while they were in service in France last fall. They separated at Marseille, France, last November 14, and the bride is still in Germany.

District Judge A. H. Featherstone officiated at the ceremony here and an army chaplain, Harold Day, was at Miss Wilson's side in Frankfort as a telephone call from Frankfort to Wallace connected the two far-separated points at 2:05 this afternoon.

Mrs. Audrey Angle and Mrs. Frances Moore, both of Kellogg and both sisters of the groom, were attendants here and two WAC companions of Miss Wilson were her witnesses in Germany.

A four-way telephone hookup was arranged for the wedding, and the bride's parents listened to the ceremony. The father listened from Bremerton, where he was at work, and her mother from the home in Seattle.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Stock prices crumpled further today in a renewal of liquidation that brought losses of one to seven points to an extended list of steels, rails, motors and rubbers.

Concern in some quarters over effects on individual companies of the application of price adjustments under the new government wage-price policy was reflected in selling of industrial shares. Other factors in the market's third successive drop were seen by brokers in continued wage dispute deadlocks and threats of further walkouts; prospects for extension of government controls and further taking of long-term profits.

Transfers approximated 2,200,000 shares.

"Murder!" They Cried

By DOROTHY STALEY

Copyright, 1946, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Betsy comes in to see Nana before going to a party with Pat Downes. She is wearing a sheer white dress. A blue chiffon handkerchief is tucked in the belt. Betsy tells Nana neither Philipa nor Pat will come home for dinner that night. Andrew and Dru go off to the movies after dinner. Miss Reed asks Nana if she is worried about Philipa. Nana remains alone on the terrace.

XI

"Mind if I keep you company, Nana?" he asked. He sat down rather heavily. Everything was very dark now, the night was very deep and the only touches of light were the end of Mr. Willson's cigar and the flashes of heat lightning still darting up from the horizon.

"Do you think it will rain, Nana?" he asked.

Before I answered, I wondered to myself why we were all so anxious about rain. The heat had made everyone uneasy and a storm might cool the air, but it seemed to me that there was more to it than that. It was the uneasiness that pervaded the house, that made it tense, that needed releasing. A violent clash in the elements might tend to ease the strain, as though being reduced to the fundamentals which the natural elements represent would strip each of us of the protective covering we had thrown around our various emotions.

He didn't realize I hadn't answered him; he just went on. "It would be a pity to have the parade spoiled, and we would have to move the picnic into the clubhouse."

I said yes, and then nothing more was said. We just sat there, each thinking our own thoughts.

Suddenly he said, "Nana, something has to be done about Philipa. I have to find a way out of this situation for Fletch—for everybody."

I didn't answer him. His words were the same as Betsy's. "Something has to be done about Philipa."

We always had breakfast at 7 on the Fourth of July, on account of the parade.

ANDREW STITES and Dru came in shortly after that, and came out to the terrace.

Dru stayed only long enough to tell me that they had seen William Powell and he was smooth and amusing, and that she and Uncle Andrew had pretended they were 16 and had gone to the drug store for sodas afterwards, then she went up to her room.

Andrew Stites and I sat there for a time in silence, then he said, "Do you know, Jemima Harrold, I feel quite old tonight."

"Well," I said, "considering your age"—Andrew Stites was four years older than I, which made him 72—"I'm not at all surprised. I'm just wondering what detained you."

He chuckled, "Maybe I'm like one of those delayed action bombs you read about."

Nothing more was said for a few minutes, and then he spoke again. "You know, don't you, there is nothing that I wouldn't do for Jenny."

"I know that," I answered. "I have known that for 46 years."

I could see again the tall, young man, very grave, almost the direct opposite of his brother, Joel Stites, who had led Jenny into the library of the old Stites house on the day when I had come to take charge of her. Fletch was built very much like his Uncle Andrew, and was a little like him in his actions. I was really thinking about when I said, "Fletch is like you were then."

He said "Yes," and it wasn't until that moment that I remembered that both Stites brothers had been unfortunate in their marriages.

* * *

JOEL STITES had lost his wife in the birth of their second child; Andrew Stites' wife had been a grasping, selfish woman, whose every whim had to be satisfied if Andrew Stites was to have any peace. He had broken under the strain of trying to give her all she wanted. She divorced him eventually, and married a succession of men after that, each one wealthier than the one before. Andrew Stites did not have the fortune which his brother Joel had. Their father had owned the cotton mills which Joel ran, but Andrew studied law and looked after the legal matters of the mill and the family. When Joel had married my Miss Jenny's mother, he had taken over the management of the carpet mills which her family owned, and that is where he had really made his money. Andrew was counsel for the carpet mills, and he could have been president of them after Joel's death, but he preferred the quiet life of his law office to the strenuous life of the mills. Money meant little to Andrew Stites, even in his young days. After the months he had spent in a sanitarium from trying to appease a money-mad woman, he had cared even less for it.

He said, "I want you to remember, Nana, that whatever I have done, I have done for Jenny. It was the wrong way, though. I wanted to save Jenny any more heartache, only I took the wrong way. But remember, will you, Nana, that what I have done, I have done for Jenny."

I didn't know what he was talking about, so I simply said, "Yes, I'll remember. I couldn't fail to remember something I have always known."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—The atomic bomb test force added six ships to its target fleet today and disclosed that 92 vessels, ranging from transports to floating drydocks, will be used to service the project.

The increase of six in the target fleet was accounted for mainly in amphibious craft and small merchant-type vessels. No additions were made to the original list of combatant ships.

Cage Standings Still Uncertain

Only one thing is certain at this point in the Panhandle class A basketball conference, and that is that Coeur d'Alene has won the championship. All the other standings, and as a result the pairings for the tournamennt next week, will not be determined until the eight games on this week's schedule have been played.

The Vikings, in first place, will meet the team that finishes fifth in the conference in the opening round of the tournament. At present this team is Bonners Ferry, but the Badgers have three games to play this weekend and it would be a long shot guess wondering where they will finish in the final standings. The Badgers play Mullan, St. Maries and Coeur d'Alene, all at home, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday nights, respectively.

Wallace at present is in the choice spot, so far as tournament pairings are concerned, but has no guarantee of remaining there. The Miners are fourth, and the fourth place team meets the eighth place team in the first round of the tournament.

But the Miners must play Kellogg at Kellogg Friday night to finish out their season. A defeat would give them a record of six wins and eight losses, and both Bonners Ferry and Sandpoint could tie or better this, making a flip of a coin necessary to determine the standings.

Sandpoint plays Priest River, Mullan and St. Maries, all at home on successive evenings, this week.

If the Miners defeat Kellogg, they would have seven wins and seven losses, and it still would be possible for Bonners Ferry and Sandpoint to tie this standing.

The battle for second place in the standings is just as hot. The second place team is seeded in the bracket opposite the first team in the tournament and meets the sixth place team in the first round.

Priest River is currently in second place but Kellogg is close behind. Each team has four losses, but Priest River has nine wins and Kellogg eight. Kellogg meets Wallace and Mullan Friday and Saturday nights while Priest River has Sandpoint to play tomorrow night at Sandpoint. If the Spartans win tomorrow night, Kellogg must win both its games to tie for second.

High Cage Scorer Has 505 Points

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Bill Hall of Marshall (W. Va.) college, bounced back to the top of the nation's collegiate high basketball scorers last week, ending the brief reign of Elmore Morgenthaler of New Mexico Mines.

Hall scored 55 points in three games to regain the top rung at 505 points, the Associated Press weekly tabulation showed today. Morgenthaler scored 27 points in one game and fell to second at 485.

There was no change in the remainder of the first five scorers. Fred Lewis of eastern Kentucky retained third at 461 points, George Mikan of DePaul, fourth at 444 and Andy Tonkovich of Marshall, fifth at 442. Don Otten of Bowling Green with 405 and Harold Brown of Evansville at 403 are the only others to have crossed the 400-point mark.

Feller To Revive Old Western League

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Bob Feller says he isn't going to end his baseball career when his arm gives out.

The former Iowa farm boy already has stepped into the promotional end of the game and hopes to have the old Western league reorganized for operation in 1947.

"All we need out in Denver now is a suitable ball park," the Cleveland fireball righthander said last night. "We want to put a class A ball team in Denver, and I can't see why we can't do it. I'm backing the team, and I have friends helping me."

He said Sioux City, Ia., Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., and Pueblo, Colo., were ready to join the league, and that other cities which he did not name, also were seeking franchises.

Dog Derby to Be Run Again

ASHTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—The mushers who urged their malamutes over the snow-packed continental divide from Idaho into Montana in the first American dog derby will be honored by a special event in the 27th annual race here Friday.

Entries in the dogsled classic closed today and a firm crust of three-foot snow on the course had enthusiasts predicting a fast meet with the possibility of past records going under the runners.

Four thousand spectators are expected to attend the resumption of the Washington's birthday event after a war-time lapse.

Arthur R. Clouse, derby association president, who opines the sled-dog competition still is "the biggest event in winter sports," admitted that the 1946 running will be sissy stuff compared to the original marathon in 1917.

"In those days men were mushers and dogs were sled-dogs because they had to be," he recalled. "Dog teams were the only means of transportation there was."

Three drivers and their teams have signed up for a special Ted Kent memorial freight division race this year, Clouse explained, honoring the winner of the 1917 race, which followed a 69-mile trail from Ashton across the divide to West Yellowstone, Mont.

It took Kent 26 hours to win that race, since repeated in some form or other every year till 1942. All entries took refuge in a shelter cabin when a blizzard caught them 20 miles from Ashton, and could proceed later only by taking turns at breaking trail across the backbone of the continent.

To prove that dogs and sleds are still an important part of life in this community, Clouse pointed to the team of Reynold Williams of Teton Basin, Idaho, favored by many to win the Ted Kent race.

Three in Loop Better 170 Mark

E. E. Jaggard and Ed McKinlay are pacing bowlers in the Recreation league at the end of the fourth round with averages of 176, according to figures released by the league secretary. Jaggard has bowled 60 games and McKinlay 24. English, with an average of 171, is the only other bowler in the loop with better than a 170 average.

English holds the high handicap individual records for the round, 204 and 740. Babe & Ted's has high team handicap single, 1123, and Gyroscopes high team handicap total, 3139.

County Agricultural Commissioner Chester Barrett says the navy base here has promised to enter the "war against crows" and use its planes and personnel in dynamiting a nearby willow grove where thousands of crows roost.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20 (AP)—After Leonard O. Sheppard, 29, admitted in federal court he had stolen two autos, Judge Michael Igoe indicated he might give him another chance.

"I don't want any break," the prisoner said.

"How long a sentence do you think you should get," the judge asked.

"I think I should have a year."

Judge Igoe accepted the recommendation and sentenced him to prison for a year and a day.

The Whirligig

at Washington had not withheld evidence of the Japs' plans to attack without warning.

It is understood that most of the more famous and sea-going admirals belong to this group, including William F. Halsey, Chester W. Nimitz, J. O. Richardson and even Harold R. Stark, although he was chief of naval operations at the time. Another important figure in this line-up is reported to be Admiral John H. Towers, who succeeded Nimitz as commander of the Pacific fleet.

They are willing to compromise and to divide ultimate responsibility between Washington and Honolulu. But they maintain that the major breakdown occurred among the top strategists thousands of miles distant from Pearl Harbor.

* * *

REACTION The audience reaction at the congressional hearing throws a light on this alignment almost every day. The witnesses who have received the most applause, so much that Chairman Alben W. Barkley has had to pound the table for order, have been the pro-Kimmel bloc. Every bit of testimony in his favor, whether given by himself or others, has evoked handclapping.

The answer is that at least 75 per cent of the gallery consists of the mothers, wives, sisters, other relatives and friends of the sea dogs as against the naval bureaucrats. It is an ancient feud, but the present flare-up is almost unprecedented in the history of the American navy.

* * *

DISPUTE John Stelle appears to be backing away from his violent and personal attack on General Omar N. Bradley because of an alleged breakdown in Veterans Administration's services to World war I and II fighters.

The unfavorable reaction and outside the American Legion may include the national commander to try to shift responsibility to the reporters and his own publicity bureau at the capital.

Stelle's original letter of complaint to members of congress, which was forwarded about a week before his published indictment of General Bradley, did not mention the head of VA. It simply gave figures to support the contention that benefits, pensions and hospitalization under the G. I. bill should be forthcoming faster and in greater volume. It was a fairly dispassionate review of six months of operations.

Few days after he sent this letter to Capitol Hill, Stelle had a violent telephone dispute with General Bradley, It involved the location of a hospital in Decatur, Ill. The national commander favored a site which had been held at an excessive figure and which had been condemned by the federal hospitalization board.

* * *

BACKDOOR It was only after this clash with the former commander of our European ground forces that Stelle called the newspapermen to his hotel suite and delivered his unbridled condemnation.

Washington headquarters of the Legion, however, distributed these remarks to the press, together with his earlier letter to the legislators. It was this second release which led many officials and posts of the Legion to denounce their commander and praise General Bradley.

Other evidence suggests that Stelle sought to provoke sentiment against the VA head by backdoor means. When he sent his communication to the M. C.s, he added a postscript that went only to members he knew well personally. It charged in somewhat undignified language that the "VA wants to kick non-service-connected patients out of the hospitals," and asked, "what are you going to do about it?" It was signed "John."—Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Ask Skiers to Support Patrol

The drive for funds to support the National Ski Patrol system is in its second week, and local skiers and parents of junior skiers are being urged to subscribe to support the local patrol which serves the public on the Lookout summit course, said Dr. E. J. FitzGerald, leader of the Idaho Ski patrol and chairman of the Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho NSPS.

Lowell Thomas, national chairman of the 1946 membership drive, declares "the National Ski Patrol system has proved itself virtually indispensible to the welfare of American skiing. Every skier should support the NSPS.

The Idaho Ski patrol, organized in 1940, has 14 members, all of whom are excellent skiers trained in first aid. A demonstration of their work was given after the Intermountain Ski Council tournament at Lookout pass Sunday. Sixty per cent of the money taken locally in this drive goes to the support of the Idaho patrol.

'Casual' Best Word To Describe Vandals

SEATTLE, Feb. 20 (AP)—"Casual" seems to be the word that best describes the Idaho Vandals. They're confident but not cocky, offhand but not careless, flashy but not showboat.

Some of their trick passing, especially by Forward Fred Quinn and lanky Center Jack Phoenix, looks like something from the Harlem Globetrotters, but they hit their target with those dipsy-doodles, and usually manage to convert the business into a score during the fractional second their opponent is agape with wonderment.

Some of Quinn's reverse swandives in shooting for the loop also are gulp-provoking.

One key to the Vandals' faculty of doing the ironman stunt is the fact they never break their necks getting downfloor. Len Pyne and Bob Carbaugh glide up the floor in slow motion before settling up the play.

Kellogg Man Found Dead In Cabin

KELLOGG, Feb. 21—Jack Ruby, 60, a former resident of Dillon, Mont., was found dead at 10:30 this morning in his cabin on Bridge avenue here, victim of a heart attack. Dr. H. C. Mowery, coroner, said he had been dead about 24 hours.

The man had apparently collapsed as he was lighting a kerosene lamp and his mouth was against the lamp wick, under conditions which at first indicated suicide, but the later investigation by Dr. Mowery disclosed that he had died of a heart attack.

Frank Hunt, Kellogg chief of police ,found the body after breaking into the cabin when neighbors expressed a belief that "something was wrong."

Authorities are attempting to locate relatives.

Rioters Attack Cathedral In Cairo

CAIRO, Feb. 21. (AP)—Swarms of demonstrators, shouting "down with England," attacked the All Saints Anglican cathedral, attempted to invade a British army barracks, burned military stores and touched off riots, disorder and gunfire in Egypt today.

Responding to a call of student and union leaders for a general one-day strike in Egypt's principal cities as a demonstration of their determination to have British troops withdrawn from all the Nile valley, from 160,000 to 150,000 persons roamed the streets and squares of Cairo. The city's shops and factories were closed.

Marines Demoted For Activities

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 21. (AP)—Three marine sergeants and three corporals were reduced to privates today after they circulated a petition which disapproved of marine corps discharge policy and demanded more information on leatherneck demobilization plans.

Announcing this as "the final action contemplated" in the week-old case, Lieutenant General Roy S. Geiger, Pacific fleet marine commander, said the demotions were not punishment for the six men.

Vets Retaining Life Insurance

The campaign to induce veterans to retain or re-instate the life insurance they carried in the service is producing excellent results, according to Homer Hudelson, manager of the veterans administration in Idaho. Hundreds of veterans have called at contact offices of the administration both at the center in Boise and in the field seeking aid and information concerning their national service life insurance.

Interest has become so great among veterans that inquiries concerning insurance are now running almost neck and neck with those concerning education and on-the-job training as provided under the servicemen's readjustment act of 1944. In fact a comprehensive tie-up seems to have developed between the two phases of the laws administered by the VA, Hudelson said.

Veterans generally who are going to school or taking on-the-job training, are retaining or re-instating their insurance and carrying it on the extremely low cost five-year level term plan. Those who have permanent jobs are, in the main, converting to ordinary life, 20 pay life or 30 pay life.

The campaign was inaugurated several months ago by General Omar N. Bradley, administrator of the VA, and has received the whole hearted support of veterans organizations state officials and of the insurance companies.

Miner Mittmen Defeat St. Maries

Wallace high school boxers gained a 3-2 decision over St. Maries in the St. Joe river city last night. The two teams will meet in a return match here next Wednesday night.

Beck, Norman Walker and Thornton won matches for Wallace while Faber and Bilte lost.

Thornton, 156, registered the only knockout of the evening, gaining a T.K.O. over Berry, 156, in one minute and 10 seconds of the third round. Thornton took the first round, keeping a strong left hand in Berry's face all the way and knocking the Lumberjack all over the ring in the second.

Beck, 142, won a close, hard-fought decision from Baltz, 149. Beck started fast, slowed in the second but came back strong in the third.

Walker, 138, found Rainbow, 142, an easy target but too tough to put away. Rainbow, a head taller than Walker, managed to keep Walker away part of the time in the first round but Walker hit him at will in the second and third but couldn't get him on the canvas.

In the closest fight of the evening Allen, 124, gained the nod over Faber, 126. Faber was the aggressor in the first round, which was even, but Allen took the second by a close margin and the third. He made Faber miss and kept the Miner away with a sharp left.

Bilte, 147, rushed Carman, 148, all over the ring in the first round, throwing lots of leather, but tired in the last two frames and Carman took both rounds to gain an easy decision.

Frank Kara and Bill William, Moscow, and Jim Hicks, St. Maries, were judges and Williams also acted as referee.

Strike May Close Santa Anita Track

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 21. (AP)—With its two $100,000 races, the derby and the handicap, coming up within two weeks, Santa Anita racetrack today was faced with a strike threat that could conceivably close the plant.

A group of owners and trainers informed Santa Anita officials yesterday that it would not enter its horses in any more races unless the Los Angeles Turf club, conducting the 55-day meeting, paid grooms and exercise boys and agreed to run races when only six horses are entered.

The group, organized as the California Thoroughbred Owners and Trainers association, wants the track, which is setting new betting records this season, to pay the grooms and exercise boys, instead of the money coming from the purses of owners and trainers.

HURLS CHALLENGE

CHICAGO, Feb. 21. (AP) — Jim Crowley, commissioner of the all-America football conference, said today his league was willing to challenge the rival national league to a series of eight charity games before the beginning of the 1946 season.

Colleges Plan Sports Buildings

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—The building of 30 fieldhouses, two college football stadia and the renovating and enlarging of 19 other grid amphitheaters at a cost of $25,000,000 is scheduled for the coming summer, an Associated Press survey disclosed today.

Foremost among the post-war building programs are the $2,000,000 fieldhouse at University of Illinois and at University of Maryland where a 41,000-seat stadium and a fieldhouse with accommodations for 13,000 basketball spectators already is beyond the blue print stage.

Other big-money buildings are a $1,500,000 fieldhouse at Iowa State and million-dollar gymnasiums at Kentucky University and at Muhlenberg college.

Nebraska Wesleyan is the only school other than Maryland planning to build a stadium. The Nebraska plant is to cost $51,000 and will seat 5000.

Probably the most spectacular remodeling and renovating jobs will be done at University of Wisconsin, where $4,000,000 is earmarked for the over-all plan which includes increasing the size of the stadium by 15,000; and at the Miami, Fla., Orange Bowl. The latter will be double-decker and the ends filled in to provide a total of 56,800 seats. The present setup can handle but 22,000.

All told, an estimated 278,300 seats will be added to the country's college stadia by next fall if material and labor are avaialble.

The survey showed the various gymns would cost slightly more than $12,500,000 and provide seats for 183,500 basketball spectators.

Ohio State's contribution to the postwar building boom is the erection of an elevator to the press box atop the stadium while Michigan counters with a $16,000 press box.

Oregon State college's Beavers aim for undisputed possession of the hotly contested top perch in northern division Pacific coast conference basketball standings Friday and Saturday nights when they invade the floor of the University of Washington Huskies at Seattle.

At the same time, over at Pullman, the University of Oregon's third place Webfoots start the gruelling inland empire invasion against tail-end Washington State while still clinging to their mathematical chance to repeat as conference champions.

Ski Jumper Thinks Form Should Count

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 21 (AP)—American ski jumpers should emulate the man on the flying trapeze and let the distance marks fall where they may, Norwegian-born Olav Ulland of Seattle believes.

"There's too much stress on distance and not enough on form," the 35-year-old veteran of army service in the Aleutians said today upon his arrival here to compete in the three-day tourney of the Utah Ski club beginning tomorrow at Ecker hill.

Fishing License Fees the Same

All Idaho fish and game license fees remain the same in 1946 as they were last year, the fish and game department said today. The fees, it was pointed out, are fixed by the legislature which has its next regular session in 1947.

Licenses for the 1946 season have been ordered and will be available in March. They are required on and after April 1. Booklets of 1946 fishing seasons and regulations effective April 1 have also been ordered and will be distributed to the approximately 400 license vendors for public circulation early in March.

The resident fish and game license costs $2. Non-residents may fish an entire season with a $5 license. A 10-day fishing license for non-residents is $2 . Non-resident fishing and hunting license is $50.

Last year 138,000 residents and 24,000 non-residents bought Idaho licenses. The number was far greater than in any previous year.

General trout season begins May 21 and lasts until November 15. Dates are the same as they were in 1945. Bag and possession limit is 20 fish, but not more than 10 pounds and one fish.

7:30 and Bunker Hill will meet Rose Lake at 8:30. Both games will be played at the high school gymnasium.

Rocha Leading Loop Scorers

(By The Associated Press)

In eight games since he turned in his service uniform, Gale Bishop, eagle-eyed Washington State basketball player, has piled up 128 points for fifth place in northern division conference scoring.

Out in front with 159 is Ephraim (Red) Rocha of Oregon State who has been averaging 12 per tilt. Bishop's average has been 16 but fans recall he plummeted 62 points through the hoop in one game last season during the national A.A.U. tourney.

Last year's leader, Vince Hanson of Washington State, is just ahead of Bishop with 140. In second place is Norm Dalthorp of Washington with 149, and in third, Ladon Henson of the same school with 142.
